LOCAL AND PERSONAL

WHAT SMALL TOWN BIG STORES CAN DO.

The size of a store is not necessarily limited to the size of the town in which it is located. A recent survey disclosed some surprisingly big stores in very small towns, including the following:

Graver Bros. Store in Strasburg, O., 1,000 population does an annual business of a million dollars. The catlaw concern at Winer, S. D., 3,000 population sells $250,000 worth of goods a year. A department store at Lynden, Washington, with 1,250 people does $750,000 yearly. The B. & O. Cash store at Temple, Okla., with barely 1,000 people, does $725,000 annually. Fred Mann's store at Devil's Lake, N. D., 1,300 population, sells $500,000 worth of merchandise a year.

How do they do it?

They do it through the same methods that have won success for retailers in the largest cities of America. They keep good stocks, give their customers real service, and they advertise consistently, persistently, and adequately in the local newspaper.—Goliad Advance Guard.

Bulgerin and J. A. Batot.

The jury for the second week was discharged for the week after the jury for the Edwards case had been empaneled.

The grand jury returned four indictments as follows:

State vs. —, Child desertion.

State vs. —, Disposing of mortgage property.

State vs. —, Child desertion.

State vs. —, Cattle theft and embezzlement of cattle.

After filing its report the grand jury was discharged on Wednesday, August 6.

Following is the report:

Grand Jury Report.

THE STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF MEDINA

In District Court of Medina County, Texas, August Term, 1930.

To the Honorable L. J. Brucks, Judge of Said Court:

Your Honor for the above term of said Court has inquired into all matters coming before it by submission of records, information from officers and witnesses or lying within the knowledge of its members wherein establishment of a prima facie case by the State may be reasonably expected. In this it has been guided by Your Honor's instructions, the statutes and the advice of State's counsel.

The customary inspection of the Court House and Jail property reveals same in commendable condition as to repair and sanitation. The grounds are attractive in appearance which has been increased by the hedge surrounding the same.

It has come to the attention of the Grand Jury that the Attorney General of Texas has construed miniature pool tables as coming under the general inhibition of the laws. It is therefore recommended that all persons exhibiting or operating pool tables and equipment in any public manner and of whatever dimension or style be appropriately required to comply strictly with the law, or failing to do so that statutory action be resorted to.

This Grand Jury has found that such crimes as have been committed during the interim since the last term of court are of the lesser degrees of statutory designation, and it therefore commends the citizenship of the county for this evidence of growing respect for the laws.

Its efforts have been directed over numerous matters and in its deliberations has been promptly and efficiently by its bailiffs to the end that the

MOODYISM VS. FERGUSONISM IS THE ISSUE OF THE STATE CAMPAIGN.

(Written for publication before the first primary but published now because still timely.—Ed.)

Governor Moody has assumed to declare the issue in this campaign to be the destruction of Fergusonism, meaning, of course, that the Moody plans and policies are superior to what Governor James E. Ferguson has advocated during the last sixteen years, and therefore the issue is Moodyism vs. Fergusonism, and Love, Sterling and some lesser lights have chirped in, "Me too, Moody."

In my opinion he has correctly stated the issue, and for my part I accept his challenge and stand for Fergusonism, and will vote for Mrs. Ferguson as the necessary and proper person to carry that policy into effect.

What is Fergusonism, and what are the objections to it?

In order to understandingly answer this question it is necessary to refer to a record unknown to many, and forgotten by others. Sixteen years ago James E. Ferguson, of his own volition and without any political following or acquaintance outside of his own County, entered the exciting race for Governor against a strong field, each man supported by political friends. According to a custom then prevailing, a star chamber meeting of the leaders opposed to prohibition—then, as now, the absorbing issue—was held at Dallas to eliminate all candidates but one on the anti-prohibition side. The indorsement of that meeting was always final, and strictly observed by every anti-prohibition voter in the State. When we had assembled, excluded all outsiders and reporters, and closed the door, the first question to be disposed of was: What about this candidate, James E. Ferguson, who sends in a defiant challenge that he is his own sponsor, controlled by no one, and is in the race to the end, and will not be eliminated? Who is he, and what will he amount to in the campaign? Only one member, possibly two, could speak of him from personal acquaintance. They told us that from an humble farm boy he had grown up in the vicinity of Temple; that he was a highly respected and successful lawyer, banker, farmer and business man of ample means, and that he was a dry anti-prohibitionist; committee men from all sections reported that Ferguson's platform and the three speeches he had made had "set the country afire" with enthusiastic support for his platform, and with confidence in the man. We found the fact to be that Ferguson and the people had eliminated all other candidates, including worthy men of statewide following. The politicians were forced to accept the situation as they found it, and reluctantly gave the indorsement of Ferguson, whose election followed.

During the preceding twenty-two years, following the close of Governor Hogg's administration, all important matters of business and management of the State government had been shamefully neglected, while public officers and politicians played politics, and fought and jockeyed over business has been dispatched rapidly.

This Body takes cognizance of the death of Hon. Henry F. Wurzbach, which occurred on July 19, 1930, and desires in this manner to incorporate in the records of this Court an appropriate allusion to that occurrence to further perpetuate his memory. Mr. Wurzbach served often and faithfully over an extended period of years as a member of this Body, besides having served the people of his county and the State efficiently in many other capacities. A kindly, great-hearted man, neighbor and friend, he gave generously and pleasurably of his time and talents to the welfare of his family, his community, his State and his Country. Time alone can dim the belief of many that he must still be present, and to many of this Body his passing is felt as a keen personal loss. Therefore, having completed its labors, this Grand Jury takes final adjournment in respect of Mr. Wurzbach, standing in silent salute to his memory.

Respectfully submitted as the final report of this Grand Jury, with like request of Your Honor for its discharge.

This the 6th day of August, 1930.
P. C. JAGGE,
Foreman.

The following jury has been summoned for the 3rd week of the term: Walter Balzen, J. D. Lacey, Ben Koch, Herman Weyand, Aug. H. Stiegler, Wm. Burger, J. P. Ephraim, Sam Neuman, Clemence Opplet, Will. Le Opplet, Robert P. Haby, Albert H. Saathoff, J. V. Barron, Emil Fuos, R. W. Gaines, Phil Nixon, Garland Martin, Adolph Pichot, Alfred Haby, Joe B. Kempf, Allen Haby, Harry Kollman, Frank R. Bohl, H. W. Schweers, A. B. Littleton, J. G. Bohmfalk, M. F. Wiemers, John Gross, Aug. Schott, A. C. Gilliam, all manner of prohibition questions. One of the attractive planks in Ferguson's constructive and businesslike platform was that he would stop that game of politics by suppressing all prohibition legislation on either side with his veto, so that long-neglected public matters could be attended to by the legislature and official forces.

When Governor Ferguson was elected he unceremoniously closed the neglectful and distracting game of politics, stopped the scramble for appointive offices, ousted the incompetent political appointees in the departments, and put the whole administration to working overtime on material and long neglected matters of business. He pushed in a businesslike way all necessary appropriations and instituted a businesslike management of all state affairs, until every promise made in his platform had been fully complied with, doing for the state in three years, in material, constructive work and achievement—as the public records will show—more, in fact, than was ever done by any predecessor in that office since the State was organized.

The penitentiary system, for the first time since the abandonment of the leasing plan in about 1880, was made self-sustaining; in fact, a source of considerable profit. Long needed public building to house and care for the wards of the State were erected; their old buildings repaired and modernized; the jails of the State were relieved of the insane, and ample appropriations were made for the care and comfort of all the dependants of the State, and these institutions were placed under efficient management. Long-needed facilities and funds for a system of country schools to give children in the country their just right to have an equal chance for education, at public expense, with children in the towns and cities, were for the first time in Texas instituted under a systematic and effective plan. He supplied more money and encouragement for education than any other Governor had ever done. He put every administrative department and institution of the State to functioning in efficient and businesslike order.

This was, without doubt, Fergusonism of that day, and it is equally certain that it is Fergusonism of today, to which has been added thirteen years of warfare by Jim Ferguson single-handed, against all manner of extravagance and folly in State affairs, as it presented itself.

That is the Fergusonism for which Jim Ferguson single-handed has made a courageous, manly fight for sixteen years against overwhelming odds; against traitors, cunning and unscrupulous conspirators, and malicious political character assassins, and to which he has devoted his time and sacrificed an ample fortune, leaving himself a poor man.

What has been set out is ample ground to support Fergusonism against all opposition, but the half has not been told. In other letters of this series I will show the virtues of Fergusonism, show what Moodyism is, and contrast the two.

Respectfully submitted,
W. B. TEAGARDEN,

Adolph Biediger and J. R. Chancey. As we go to press, the Edwards murder case, begun Monday, was being argued by the attorneys.

A FATAL ACCIDENT.

Antonio Rameres was crushed under an overturned truck near the death of Hon. Henry F. Wurzbach, which occurred on July 19, 1930, and desires in this manner to incorporate in the records of this Court an appropriate allusion to that occurrence to further perpetuate his memory. Mr. Wurzbach served often and faithfully over an extended period of years as a member of this Body, besides having served the people of his county and the State efficiently in many other capacities. A kindly, great-hearted man, neighbor and friend, he gave generously and pleasurably of his time and talents to the welfare of his family, his community, his State and his Country. Time alone can dim the belief of many that he must still be present, and to many of this Body his passing is felt as a keen personal loss. Therefore, having completed its labors, this Grand Jury takes final adjournment in respect of Mr. Wurzbach, standing in silent salute to his memory.

The unfortunate man was about 38 years of age and leaves two motherless children in Del Rio where he resided. He was in a truck, being driven by its owner, M. R. Zertuche, and accompanied by another Mexican. The three were enroute home to Del Rio from San Antonio with a truck load of fruit.

Another truck, occupied by four men, attempted to pass them going in the same direction and crowded them into the ditch, upsetting the truck.

The driver speeded up and left his victims without offering aid and, so far as we have been informed, has not been apprehended.

REV. HEINEKE WRITES.

ST. PAUL'S EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH
420-30 North Erie Street
Toledo, Ohio
Aug. 7, 1930.

Dear Mr. Davis:

Fifteen of the twenty-one Texas delegates to the convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Iowa arrived here by special car this afternoon. The convention will begin tomorrow. This will be the last meeting of our Synod. Next Friday the merger of our Synod with two other Synods will take place, forming the "American Lutheran Church," a body of half a million members.

While traveling through Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio and observing the crops, especially the corn crop, I could not help thinking of our Medina County farmers. A drought and heat wave has greatly damaged the corn crop in all those states, judging by what I saw, I would think that the price of corn must go up this winter. Those states are among the leading corn states in the United States. They will barely raise enough corn for their own consumption. I am almost tempted to advise our Medina County corn raisers to hold their corn for higher prices, although I would not want to bear the blame if the price should not go up. There are other factors that contribute to the price of corn beside a small crop in those states mentioned.

There is another thought that filled my mind, especially today in Chicago and vicinity. If those people would know what a delightful climate we have in our section of Texas, Chicago would migrate tomorrow. Fog and smoke enveloped the city. A hot, sultry atmosphere made even sitting unpleasant. There is no place like Texas, especially Medina County.

We feel as if we are going to have a great convention. Toledo is a city somewhat larger than San Antonio. St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Toledo has one of the finest churches and parish houses in the entire church.

With best regards,

Yours sincerely,
H. A. HEINEKE.

COTTON FARMER TOLD HOW TO PRODUCE PORK IN SIX MONTHS.

In commenting on the South's "safe farming program," which includes the principle that "no farmer should plant any land to cotton until he has first made provision for food for his family," E. Z. Russell, swine specialist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, says "a pig will grow pork in six months, and an acre of soybeans, cowpeas or rape will produce enough pasture for from 5 to 10 pigs."

"If you have feed available," says

Mr. Russell, "a good start can be made by purchasing pigs farrowed this spring. With proper feed and care the pigs will be ready to butcher this fall. In some localities it may be that the right kind of pigs can not be readily obtained. In this case consult your county agent, or write to the State agricultural college."

It is decidedly more economical to pay enough money in the beginning to get good well-bred pigs than to pick up just any kind that can be bought for a small price, Mr. Russell says. Pigs will not only make pork in six months, he says, but well-bred ones will reach 200 pounds live weight in that time, if they have the right kind of feed and care.

There are certain waste feeds on every farm that can be turned into pork, but care must be taken to feed other things when waste feeds are not sufficient to make a full feed. To some farmers it looks expensive to feed a pig all he will eat all the time, but experiments have shown that he not only does not waste feed but puts it to the best possible use, Mr. Russell says.

"Corn should be relied upon to furnish the greater part of a pig's feed, but it must be supplemented with some bone and muscle-producing feed such as tankage and fish meal. Some farmers get best results by having hoppers with such feeds available at all times. Soybeans may be used with corn and furnish a part of the supplemental feed for hogs that are grown for home use. Economical gains are often made by 'hogging down corn' and soybeans, and a saving can be made by having green pasture as much of the time as possible. For a temporary pasture soybeans, cowpeas or rape is good. An acre of any of these feeds will produce enough pasture for from 5 to 10 pigs."

A farm is hardly complete without at least one sow, says this Government specialist. The number to be kept for the best returns can be determined by experience.

NINEVETH'S SPEED MANIA.

Nahum describes the chariots of wicked Nineveh quite as if they were modern automobiles. The speed mania of that ancient capital of Satan was like the speed mania of today. And when Nahum uttered the prophecy of Jehovah, "I will burn her chariots in the smoke," he recorded the doom of much of our present-day Godless living.

For life that thinks to outstep God's penalties is always defeated in the race. Take the wings of the morning, which are faster than the fastest gasoline motor, and flee to uttermost part of the earth, and you will find God there. Our speedsters leave nothing behind but peace and true happiness and real prosperity. Better reach your destination an hour later, and reach it. Better a dull, monotonous, plodding life than a life which goes up in smoke.

"The chariots rage in the streets they rush to and fro in the broad ways, the appearance of them is like torches, they run like the lightning."

WELLS WITHOUT WATER.

By Rev. A. B. Rhinow.

The train stopped at a station called Lakeview.

"What lake does that refer to?" I asked a fellow passenger.

"There is no lake," he answered looking up from his newspaper. "There was one, generations ago. But it is all dried up now. Nothing remains but the name."

Nothing remains but the name! And I thought of fine customs that at one time were full of power, but whose spirit had faded until nothing was left but the name.

Patriotic holidays, at one time full of martyr meaning, are now nothing more than a name to thousands who think only of spreading a table cloth on the grass on that day and munching sandwiches.

Religious truth, instilled in the years of impressionable youth, watched over and prayed over by parental love, is exposed to the blight of carelessness until nothing is left but the name.

They are wells without water. They invite the thirsty, but they have nothing to quench the thirst.

And how we like to cover up the emptiness with elaborate decorations. Where there is spirit, there is simplicity; where there is emptiness, there is ornament.

Let us revitalize our institutions by drawing from the inexhaustible fountains of divine spirit.

BETTER PROGENY BY CULLING TESTS WITH POULTRY REVEAL.

That culling the poultry flock to get rid of those birds except the vigorous, prolific layers results in noticeable improvement in the progeny is shown by recent investigations at the United States Experiment Farm, Beltsville, Md. The late moulting selected from a flock of 100 Rhode Island Reds in the fall of 1929 laid seven more eggs per bird during their second year than the original flock of pullets. They were used as breeders the following spring, and the first Red pullets to commence laying in the fall of 1931 were found to be the offsprings of these late-moulting hens. Their pullets in a period of seven months have already averaged about two dozen eggs per bird more than the original flock.

But it is not alone in number of eggs that the late-moulting progeny excel, but also in the value of the product, as the distribution was more even, a larger proportion of the eggs being laid during the winter months. In the last seven months the daughters of the late moulting not only averaged two dozen eggs per bird more than the original flock, but the value of their product was, figuring at the same prices, about $1.04 per bird more during the same period. It is expected that this margin will increase during the next five months.

J. J. Dodson and wife and son, Mit Dodson, and wife were here in Uvalde on Tuesday morning. They were from their home at Alvin and were en route for the Grand Canyon on a vacation. These people were former residents of Uvalde County and have many friends here who are always glad to meet them again.

Louis Carle of D'Hanis was in Uvalde on Tuesday. Mr. Carle is president of the D'Hanis Brick & Tile Company, and his products are recognized as the standard of excellence over the country. The D'Hanis tile has been subjected to many tests by the fire underwriters and it has been proven to have greater strength and bear heavier loads than most any other tile manufactured in the State. This is a great factor in getting a splendid building. A demonstration of the fire resisting qualities of D'Hanis tile was shown when the large frame building adjoining the Horner Ford shop burned up. The wall of the Ford shop was not damaged although it had to withstand a terrific heat. Mr. Carle takes great interest in his plant and has recently installed new machinery for making new styles of products from clay.

Adult Americans should benefit from the safety training the schools give their children and understand that accident prevention is more a personal than a legislative accomplishment.

Lose Fat Safely and Quickly

Kruschen Salts—(a perfect combination of the six mineral salts your body must have every day to function properly) purify your blood of harmful acids, and aid the kidneys and bowels to throw off waste material—the continual formation of which is probably the cause of your fat.

In this modern age of living, it's impossible to get these salts from the fancy foods you eat—but don't worry just so long as you have Kruschen Salts.

Take a half teaspoon every morning in a glass of hot water—little by little that ugly fat disappears, you'll feel better than ever before—years younger, more energy. You'll soon possess that enviable beauty, clear skin, sparkling eyes, superb figure which only perfect health can impart.

An 85c bottle (lasts 4 weeks) at W. H. Windrow's or any progressive druggist in America. Money back if Kruschen doesn't convince you that it is the safest, quickest, easiest way to lose fat.

S. J. R. No. 7
PROPOSING A CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON NOVEMBER 4, 1930.

Be is resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Section 11 of Article VII of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 11. In order to enable the Legislature to perform the duties set forth in the foregoing section, it is hereby declared all lands and other property heretofore set apart and appropriated for the establishment and maintenance of the University of Texas, together with all the proceeds of sales of the same, heretofore made or hereafter to be made, and all grants, donations and appropriations that may hereafter be made by the State of Texas, or from any other source, shall constitute and become a permanent university fund. And the same as realized and received into the Treasury of the State (together with such sums belonging to the fund, as may now be in the Treasury), shall be invested in bonds of the United States, the State of Texas, or counties of said State, or in school bonds of municipalities, or in bonds of any city of this State, or in obligations and pledges issued by the Board of Regents of the University of Texas, or secured by such obligations and pledges, for the construction of dormitories and other buildings for the use of the University of Texas, or in bonds issued under and by virtue of the Federal Farm Loan Act approved by the President of the United States, July 17, 1916, and amendments thereto, and the interest accruing thereon shall be subject to appropriation by the Legislature to accomplish the purpose declared in the foregoing section; provided, that the one-half of the alternate sections of the lands granted to railroads, reserved by the State, which were set apart and appropriated to the establishment of the University of Texas, by an Act of the Legislature of February 11, 1858, entitled, "An Act to establish the University of Texas," shall not be included in, or constitute a part of, the permanent university fund.

Sec. 2. Said proposed amendments shall be voted on by the electors of this State qualified to vote on constitutional amendments at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1930.

Tax Measures the Man

The man who is careful, keeps down expense, Who uses in business good common sense, May never be rich as they call men today, But he never misses to have tax to pay. The man who to business pays little heed, Keeps buying things he does not need, Is a man very likely who pays little tax. He accumulates nothing; his methods are lax. The HONDO STATE BANK would advise the man Who pays no tax better change his plan.

TEXAS AND TEXANS
By
Will H. Mayes

Forward, Texas!
With the heat of an unusually warm summer and the passion of politics, following a season of talk "hard times," there is a disposition to inactivity in some parts of the State from which it will be difficult to escape. The history of this country shows that the sections that have fallen behind in progress have suffered more from a tendency to do nothing, to be merely idle, rather than to be actively engaged in the struggle to escape. The history of this country shows that the sections that have fallen behind in progress have suffered more from a tendency to do nothing, to be merely idle, rather than to be actively engaged in the struggle to escape. The history of this country shows that the sections that have fallen behind in progress have suffered more from a tendency to do nothing, to be merely idle, rather than to be actively engaged in the struggle to escape.

Even if one doesn't feel like doing much in August, it is the best of months for making plans for fall activities. Those who wait until September to map out the work for that month will likely postpone September duties until October, and the labor procrastinators will likely find that it will be just as well to wait until the new year, because the month is nearly gone. People do not usually decide to become lazy, but in their own business or in the affairs which just grow that by degrees until, in time, inactivity becomes a fixed habit.

Bastrop Pulling Up
For many years Bastrop seemed to be that "satisfied feeling." Most of its brightest young men and women left the old town for Austin and other progressive places, leaving the satisfied old folks largely to cry on as they might like. Bastrop, undergoing an awakening and is showing signs of new life. The old hall is being replaced by a modern public building; new stores and residences are being built and buildings are being painted to look like new. The older folks who longer care to see the town grow, turning over the management of the town to the younger and more active and Bastrop gives promise once more of being a leader among the progressive towns of its rich section. Elgin and other neighbors warned to keep their eyes on Bastrop.

Wimberley Summer Resort
At the invitation of friends this year has spent a week-end at Wimberley, a lovely county village some miles from Austin, located between the shaded banks of Cypress and the Blanco river. To his surprise he found dozens of well-known summer homes there occupied by families from Houston, Galveston, El Paso and other Texas cities. Most of them are substantial stone structures, built of variegated rock and situated on the wooded bluffs of the river, where they have both the beauty of the country and the neighborliness of village life. Cooling breezes, an abundance of good food and rock-bottomed swimming of clear-blue water afford the luxuries of the summer camp. As it may seem, few people expect those who have built cottages to seem to know of Wimberley as a summer resort.

Blaming the Press
Most of the defeated candidates blaming the press for their defeat, claiming that the newspapers had been unfair to them and gave prominence to the candidates of their more fortunate opponents. The truth is that the candidates usually take themselves seriously and see reasons for their defeat. The press and the voters do not find. Matters that seem appear of great importance of little moment to others, and really the papers do not play up on their front pages or where. The press is more interested in news than in candidates, especially where there are no great stakes involved.

Profitable Club Work
A home demonstration club at Hondo has been engaged in making leather goods, such as purses, covers and chair coverings, in a work much pleasure and profit being found. At Mercedes one can tooled the leather for the chair and seat of an old hand-carved, style walnut chair, the work being valued at $85. The chair was covered. About twenty women in the county have been training in the art of leather working.

Pansy Culture Paying
Four eight years ago, T. W. Waller, who lives three miles from Hondo, bought 30 cents worth of seed, and began specializing in growing pansy plants for the market. He is now shipping 500,000 pansies a year to florists in all the States, north as far as Kansas and west to Utah and has established an enviable reputation for the beauty of the blooms from his plants. He gets the best seed and the greatest variety he can find in this and foreign countries, puts intelligent effort into his work and takes much pride in growing as fine pansies as are in the world; hence his success.

Hogs at Six Cents
A young woman farmer in Fisher County, Miss Lellie Webb, who is styled a "farmerette demonstrator," has found that it is possible to fatten hogs at a feed cost of less than six cents a pound, using yellow corn meal, ground oats, cottonseed meal and alfalfa meal made into a slop of buttermilk consistency with skim milk. The feeding experiment was conducted 128 days; the feed-stuffs were placed at local market values and the skim milk at 22 cents a gallon.

Texas Potato Crop
Texas produced 3,752,000 bushels of Irish potatoes in the season ending July 1, which was about a 50 per cent increase over the crop of last year, but was less than a hundredth part of the entire crop of the United States. That part of the crop that was marketed before the main crop of the country was ready for market brought good prices. The satisfactory sale of Texas potatoes depends largely upon the quantity of the old crop in storage in northern markets at the time of maturity of the Texas crop.

Filming Texas History
A corporation has been formed to preserve in motion picture films the principle incidents of Texas history. With the proper background of historical study and sincere efforts to produce films true to history, rather than to commercialize the film production, such records of Texas history should prove quite valuable. The personnel of the Texas members of the corporation should insure the placing of history above mere commercialism, and includes: John A. Kirby of Houston, Clara Driscoll Sevier of Austin, C. R. Wharton of Houston, Henry Hutchins and C. E. Gilliam of Fort Worth, all noted for their interest in and love for Texas history.

Building Barrels
Every industry that undertakes making in Texas anything that can be used in the State is a valuable contribution, however small it may be, to the progress of the State, if it is properly supported by the State. A box and barrel factory is being constructed at Brownwood to assemble boxes and barrels for use in packing and shipping turkeys. The lumber to be used will be cut to right sizes at the lumber mills. Some 12 or 14 men will be employed for about six months in the year, and the finished products will be sold to the produce houses in the "Heart of Texas" district.

Enlarging Hatcheries
The announcement of the Leader-News that the Uvalde Hatchery is being doubled in capacity is in line with the progress of the chicken hatchery business throughout Texas. In a few years the farm will be an exception that doesn't have a flock of a few hundred egg producers, the profits from which will be as great as from the cotton crop.

A THOUGHT FOR SUNDAY.
By
AMOS R. WELLS.

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT WHEN PEELING POTATOES?
A college girl who spent the summer as a counsellor in a girls' camp, was also expected to help out in the kitchen. One day she was busy peeling potatoes when the head of the camp came and spoke to her. "It's too bad," she said, "that a young woman of your education should have to peel potatoes." The girl looked up brightly. "But, Miss Baldwin," she said, "I don't have to think about the potatoes while I am peeling them."

That was a Pauline utterance. "Whatever things are lovely... think on these things." Our minds are ours, though our fingers may be hired out. And even if our humdrum tasks require constant attention as we work, there is an upper self that may be living at the same time, and communing with the angels. If we "set our minds on the things that are above," the "things that are upon the earth" will not suffer—be sure of that—but will be vastly advantaged.

"Whatever things are lovely... think on these things."

For Representative 77th District.
We are authorized to announce HON. A. P. JOHNSON as a candidate for re-election to the office of Representative of the 77th Representative District, subject to the Democratic Primaries.

For Tax Assessor.
Yielding to the solicitations of my many friends, I have decided to become a candidate for the office of Tax Assessor of Medina County, and now hereby respectfully announce for said office, subject to the next November general election.
It will be my earnest endeavor to meet every voter before the election, but in case I should not be able to do so, I adopt this opportunity to say that your support and vote will be greatly appreciated by me. I promise, if elected, to render impartial, courteous and efficient service to all.
Sincerely yours,
FRANK M. FINGER.

In announcing my candidacy for re-election to the office of Tax Assessor, it is a deep sense of gratitude that impels me to express my appreciation to the voters of Medina County for their liberal support and confidence reposed in me. Assuring you that if I am re-elected I will endeavor to discharge the duties incumbent upon me as Tax Assessor impartially to the best interest of Medina County.
Respectfully,
L. E. HEATH.

At the solicitation of many friends in Medina County, I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Tax Assessor at the November election, and respectfully solicit the vote and support of all voters of the county.
OSCAR L. SAATHOFF.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.
I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Treasurer of Medina County, Texas, at the general election in November, 1939. If re-elected I shall continue to discharge the duties of the office to the very best of my ability.
Sincerely thanking the citizens of Medina County for past favors conferred upon me, and assuring one and all that their influence and support will be greatly appreciated by me. I am,
Yours to serve,
J. J. DROITCOURT.

Upon the solicitations of many friends, I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Treasurer of Medina County, subject to the November election.
I will endeavor to meet the voters of the County before the election. However, should I not be able to do so, I adopt this opportunity to say that your vote and support will be greatly appreciated by me. I promise if elected, to fulfill the duties of the office to the best interest of the county.
Respectfully,
OSCAR J. BADER.

For Commissioner Precinct No. 1.
To My Friends and All Voters of Commissioner's Precinct No. 1,
I am again announcing myself as a candidate for the office of Commissioner of Precinct No. 1, believing it is time a change should be made in that official position of the County.
It is my purpose, in making the race for Commissioner, to try and not only try, but improve our public roads of my precinct, without favor or hope of reward, and to economically manage as far as I can the finances of the County, provided the voters and tax payers will so honor me with their support.
Hence I am asking all voters in Precinct No. 1 who have confidence in my integrity and ability to fill the office, for their support at the next election in November, 1939.
Trusting I will be your next Commissioner,
I am, most respectfully,
ALVIN MUMME.

I hereby respectfully announce my candidacy for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of Precinct No. 1 of Medina County, Texas, at the general election to be held in November, 1939.
During the time I have served as your County Commissioner I have always endeavored to safeguard the interests of the Taxpayers and to render efficient and faithful service, and if elected again I shall continue to execute the trust imposed in me to the very best of my ability. I will greatly appreciate your influence and support.
Respectfully,
H. F. BUSS.

For Commissioner Precinct No. 3
I hereby announce myself as a candidate for Commissioner of Precinct No. 3, and if elected pledge myself to a faithful and economical administration of the affairs of the office. Your vote and support is earnestly solicited.
ALFRED NESTER.

I hereby respectfully announce myself for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of Precinct No. 3, of Medina County, Texas, at the November general election.
During the time I have had the honor of serving as County Commissioner it has been my earnest endeavor to do my full duty and to render

KONJOLA ENDS NEURITIS AND STOMACH PAINS.

Grateful Man Eager to Endorse Famed Medicine That Did So Much for Him.

MR. W. T. BRYANT.

"Konjola is the best medicine ever made," said Mr. W. T. Bryant, 1009 Morrell street, Oak Cliff, near Dallas. "Neuritis became so severe in my legs that I could scarcely walk. There was a constant aching in my back and shoulders. I could never get a perfect night's rest. My bowels were irregular and I was constantly taking cathartics. I always had a sour stomach, frequent accumulations of gas and severe headaches. My vitality was at a low ebb, and I felt miserable.
"After giving Konjola a trial I am like a different man. Konjola restored my organs to normal condition and they now function perfectly. I am no longer bothered with indigestion or constipation. The neuritis pains have completely left me and my entire system is in good condition. Konjola deserves all the praise it gets—and more."
When taken for six to eight weeks, Konjola the new and different medicine, will work wonders that will astonish those who suffer from the stubborn ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.
Konjola is sold in Hondo, Texas at W. H. Windrow's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.
Fair and impartial service to every taxpayer. If re-elected I shall continue to fulfill the duties of the office to the very best of my ability.
I wish to again thank the voters of Precinct No. 3 for the honor conferred upon me and to assure one and all that your vote and support at the coming election will be greatly appreciated by me.
Respectfully submitted,
OSCAR W. TONDRE.

this Free book helps make Long Distance like a local call . . .

How would you like to pick up your telephone and, almost as quickly as on a local call, get in touch with friends, relatives, business associates, a hundred . . . two hundred . . . miles away?

Would you like to know you could do this, not only in emergencies, but on ordinary social and business calls?

You can do it, in practically every case.*

To make it easy for you to use this speedy method, we will supply you, if you wish, with an "out-of-town number book," listing the names and addresses of your out-of-town friends, relatives, business associates, and telling you how much it will cost to talk for three minutes to each.

It's easy. All you have to do is give the number of the out-of-town telephone you are calling.

Knowing the number saves the operator the time of looking it up in the directory, and enables her in most cases to ring the telephone almost as quickly as if it were in your own town

THIS BOOKLET IS FREE

To obtain one, simply write on the coupon the names and addresses of three or more persons in other cities whose telephone numbers you would like to keep handy. Then mail or bring the list to the office of the telephone company.

We will obtain the numbers for you, enter them with the other information in your own private long distance telephone directory, and mail it to you promptly.

*Statistics show that on 8 out of every 10 of these long distance calls the person calling is connected to the called telephone while he holds the line. On the shorter distances — up to 500 miles — the proportion is even greater.

ZEN of the Y. D.

A Novel of the Foothills

By ROBERT STEAD

Author of "The Coy Punter," "The Homesteaders," "Neighbors," etc.

"I called at your old home," he continued. "I needn't say how distressed I was to hear— the woman could tell me nothing of you, so I came to Murdoch, hoping—"

"Yes," she said simply, as though there were nothing more to explain. Grant noticed that her eyes were larger and her cheeks paler than they had been, but the delight of her presence leapt about him. Her hurried costume seemed to accentuate her beauty despite of all that war had done to destroy it. There was a silence which lengthened out. They were all groping for a footing.

Mrs. Murdoch met the situation by insisting that she would put on the kettle, and Mr. Murdoch, in a burst of almost divine inspiration, insisted that his wife was quite incompetent to light the gas alone at that hour of the night. When the old folks had shuffled into the kitchen Grant found himself standing close to Phyllis Bruce.

"Why didn't you answer my letters?" he demanded, plunging to the issue with the directness of his nature.

"Because I had promised to let you forget," she replied. There was a softness in her voice which he had not noted in those bygone days; she seemed more resigned and yet more poised; the strange wizardry of suffering had worked new wonders in her soul. Suddenly, as he looked upon her, he became aware of a new quality in Phyllis Bruce—the quality of gentleness. She had added this to her unique self-confidence, and it had toned down the angularities of her character. To Grant, straight from his long exile from fine womanly domesticity, she suddenly seemed altogether captivating.

"But I didn't want to forget!" he insisted. "I wanted not to forget—you."

She could not misunderstand the emphasis he placed on that last word, but she continued as though he had not interrupted.

"I knew you would write once or twice out of courtesy. I knew you would do that. I made up my mind that if you wrote three times, then I would know you really wanted to remember me. . . . I did not get any third letter."

"But how could I know that you had placed such a test—such an arbitrary measurement—upon my friendship?"

"It wasn't necessary for you to know. If you had cared—enough—you would have kept on writing."

He had to admit to himself that there was just enough truth in what she said to make her logic unanswerable. His delight in her presence now did not alter the fact that he had found it quite possible to live for four years without her, and it was true that upon one or two great vital moments his mind had leapt, not to Phyllis Bruce, but to Zen Transley! He blushed at the recollection; it was an impossible situation, but it was true!

He was framing some plausible argument about honorable men not persisting in a correspondence when Murdoch bustled in again.

"Mother is going to set the dining-room table," he announced, "and the coffee will be ready presently. Well, sir, you do look well in uniform. You will be wondering how the business has gone?"

"Not half as much as I am wondering some other things," he said, with significance intended for the ear of Phyllis.

"Come, Mr. Grant; come, every body!" a cheerful voice called from behind the sliding doors which shut off the dining-room. The fragrant smell of coffee was already in the air, and as Grant took his seat Mrs. Murdoch declared that for once she had decided to defy all the laws of digestion.

At the table their talk dribbled out into thin channels. It was as though there were at hand a great reservoir of thought, of experience, of deep gropings into the very well-springs of life, which none of them dared to tap lest it should rush out and overwhelm them. They seemed in some strange awe of its presence, and spoke, when they spoke at all, of trivial things. Grant proved uncommunicative, and perhaps, in a sense, disappointing. He preferred to forget both the glories and the horrors of war; when he drew on his experience at all it was to relate some humorous incident. That, it seemed, was all he cared to remember. He was conscious of a restraint which hedged him about and hampered every mental deployment.

Phyllis, too, must have been conscious of that restraint, for before they parted she said something about human minds being like pianos, which get out of tune for lack of the master-touch.

When Grant found himself in the street air again he was almost swallowed up in the rush of things which he might have said. He paused at a bridge to lean against the railing and watch the trembling reflection of city lights in the river.

"I have it!" he suddenly exclaimed to the steel railing. "I have it!"

He paused for a moment to turn over his thought, as though to make sure it should not escape. Then, at a pace which aroused the wondering glance of one or two placid policemen, he hurried to the hotel.

Linder and Grant had been assigned to the same room, and the sergeant's dreams, if he dreamt at all, were of the sweet hay meadows of the West. Grant turned on the light and looked down into the face of his friend. A smile, born of fields afar from war's alarms, was playing about his lips. Even in his excitement Grant could not help reflecting what a wonderful thing it is to sleep in peace. Then—

"I have it!" he shouted. "Linder, I have it!"

The sergeant sat up with a start, blinking.

"I have it!" Grant repeated.

"Then, you mean," said Linder, suddenly awake. "Why, man, what's wrong with you? You're more excited than if we were just going over the top."

"I've got my great idea. I know what I'm going to do with my money." "Well, don't do it tonight," Linder protested. "Someone has to settle for this dugout in the morning."

"We're leaving for the West tomorrow, Linder, old scout—"

But Linder was again sleeping the sleep of a man four years in France.

CHAPTER XII

The window was gray with the light of dawn before Grant's mind had calmed down enough for sleep. When Linder awoke him it was noon.

"You sleep well on your Big Idea," was his comment.

"No better than you did last night," retorted Grant, springing out of bed. "Let me see . . . yes, I still have it clearly. I'll tell you about it sometime, if you can stay awake. When do we eat?"

"Now, or as soon as you are presentable. I've a notion to give you three days' C.B. for appearing on parade in your pajamas."

"Make it a cash fine, sergeant, old dear, and pay it out of what you owe me. Now that that is settled order up a decent meal. I'll be shaved and dressed long before it arrives. You know this is a first-class hotel, where prompt service would not be tolerated."

As they ate together Grant showed no disposition to discuss what Linder called his Big Idea, nor yet to give any satisfaction in response to his companion's somewhat pointed references as to his doings of the night before.

"There are times, Linder," he said, "when my soul craves solitude. You, being a sergeant, and therefore having no soul, will not be able to understand that longing for contemplation—"

"It's all right," said Linder. "I don't want her."

"Furthermore," Grant continued, "tonight I mean to resume my soliloquies, and your absence will be much in demand."

"The supply will be equal to the demand."

"Good! Here are some morsels of money. If you will buy our railway tickets and settle with the chief extortionist downstairs, I will join you at the night train going west."

Linder sprang to attention, gave a salute in which mock deference could not entirely obscure the respect beneath, and set about on his commissions, while Grant devoted the afternoon to a session with Murdoch and Jones, but it was noted that Grant's interest centered more in a certain telephone call than in the very gratifying financial statement which Murdoch was able to place before him. And it was probably as a result of that telephone call that a taxi drew up in front of Murdoch's home at exactly six-thirty that evening and bore Miss Phyllis Bruce and an officer wearing a captain's uniform in the direction of the best hotel in the city.

The dining room was sweet with the perfume of flowers, and soft strains of music stole vaguely about its high arching pillars, mingling with the chatter of lovely women and of men to whom expense was no consideration. Grant was conscious of a delicious sense of intimacy as he helped Phyllis remove her wraps and seated himself by her at a secluded corner table.

"By Jove!" he exclaimed. "I don't make compliments for exercise, but you do look stunning tonight!"

A manure pit is desirable for the temporary storage of manure if it is fitted with a tent trap or cone trap to catch flies that may breed before the pit is emptied. To retain the fertilizing value of manure, it should be protected from rain and the air excluded as much as possible. There is no need to cover a large part of the top of the pit with a trap, but merely to leave holes large enough to attract flies to the light. Conical traps with the legs cut off and ly to the box. In large bins two more holes covered with traps should be provided.

Course of Study in Successful Poultry Keeping is offered to all who are working earnestly to earn a good livelihood and to substantially increase their profits from their poultry flocks. The secret of greater success and more profit is in knowing what to do and when and how to do it. To avoid the mistakes of others and take advantage of the methods that have been tried and proven, is the only short cut. This information can be found in its most complete form in Reliable Poultry Journal and the R.P.J. Poultry Library.

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do You Know:

1. How to identify your best layers?
2. What is "Prepotency"?
3. What is the difference between a breed and a variety?
4. How many hours of artificial light should hens have daily?
5. What is the actual difference between white and brown eggs?
6. Why is yellow better than white corn?
7. How were Rhode Island Reds originated?
8. What direction should a brooder house face?

VOL. IX

HONDO, TEXAS, AUGUST 1, 1930.

No. 1.

Mrs. Ferguson Speaks--"To the Democrats of Texas":

We are now entering the last stage of this primary contest.

I have endeavored to conduct this campaign in a manner befitting the dignity of the office to which I am again to be elected.

Neither my husband nor myself have referred to any of the other candidates, only in connection with their relation to the public issues involved. I trust that the campaign will be continued on the same high plane.

If our friends will not allow themselves to be diverted from the main issues there is no power that can defeat us.

Senator Love, Governor Moody and Mr. Sterling who constitute the leadership of my opposition have emphasized the fact that they are opposed to everything I stand for. Under the cry of Fergusonism they seem to desire to decide all public questions on prejudice instead of reason.

Taking them at their word as being opposed to whatever I stand for the people will understand that they oppose my desire to double the capacity of the tubercular colony and the hundreds of poor people that are afflicted with that awful disease must die for want of treatment in a Christian land.

The people will also understand that they are opposed to my demand for an old age pension for the benefit of the fathers and mothers who have stood by our state in peace and in war and blazed the way for our civilization.

MRS. MIRAM A. FERGUSON.

Ex-Governor of Texas, and leader in the July primary by 70,543 for the nomination.

The people will understand that they oppose the Ferguson platform from beginning to end, and that they are in favor of (first) that public officers be allowed to drink all the bootleg liquor unlawfully obtained that they want to and at the same time prosecute the private citizen and send them to prison for doing the same thing, (second) that big banks like Mr. Sterling owns in Houston, be allowed to have the people's tax money deposited with them and they in turn loan the same outside of Texas to the stock gamblers of New York, (third) that the shylocks and money lenders be allowed to foreclose their liens on the small homes in the towns and country and turn their unfortunate debtors out in the streets and roads without a dog's chance to save the earnings perhaps of a lifetime which they have paid on the same.

True to their public declarations Senator Love, Mr. Sterling and Governor Moody strenuously oppose my proposition to let the people elect their own highway commission from all sections of the state and ask the people to elect Mr. Sterling so he can now appoint Senator Love and Governor Moody to those places, as he no doubt desires to do and will do if the people were to elect him.

Mr. Sterling, backed by Governor Moody and Senator Love, is wedded to the idea of issuing 350 million dollars in state bonds for highway construction. I am opposed to the issuance of state bonds for any purpose. That issue is clean cut between us.

These three gentlemen, with Mr. Sterling as their candidate, caused to be passed the law turning the public highways, built with the tax money of the people, over to foreign corporations to be used for corporation profit and gain and at the same time make the roads unsafe for travel on account of the big road hog busses and trucks which are dangerous to life and limb of those for whose benefit the roads were built. Mr. Sterling brags that he is in favor of the trucks and busses.

I am opposed to the trucks and busses because they make the roads unsafe for travel, and produce higher freight and passenger rates on the railroads which the people must pay, and destroy the employment of thousands of railroad employees who consume at high prices the products of the ranch and farm.

Mr. Sterling is committed to the plan advocated by Senator Love and Governor Moody to sell the valuable penitentiary lands of the state and move the prison system near Austin and enter upon a building program which they themselves admit will take five million dollars to begin, and which will take 20 million to complete, and which the taxpayers must pay. I am opposed to this scheme and in my opinion such a course is unsound and a dangerous policy.

These are the issues and Mr. Sterling says that Governor Moody is like a son to him. Therefore, if the issues can be more quickly described as Fer-gusonism against Moodyism then so be it, and I welcome the contest.

If the people want a continuation of present conditions vote for Mr. Sterling. If they want a change vote for me. I am profoundly grateful to the thousands of friends who have heard my call and will answer on election day.

MIRIAM A. FERGUSON.

HON. JAMES E. FERGUSON.

Fred W. Davis For Mrs. Ferguson

The attitude of those who voted for candidates for governor other than the ones in the final contest will determine who shall be governor.

In the first primary I publicly supported Mr. Young of Kaufman and therefore the present situation is not a direct result of my vote. There is no alternative upon the part of those who participated in the election in good faith but to make their choice. Personally, I am going to support Mrs. Ferguson.

Throughout the Ferguson's political career I have sometimes approved and sometimes disapproved of their official conduct. In our political battles we are prone to magnify the virtues of our friends and the vices of our enemies. Having had no personal contact with Mr. Sterling, I am measuring the candidates upon their declarations of principles.

Ferguson is opposed to the issuance of state road bonds and so am I. The proposal is without economic merit and can lead only to bankruptcy. The roads would wear out faster than we could economically spend a large borrowed sum of money and the cost of carrying the bonds would be so heavy that as soon as one issue was spent it would be imperative to borrow again. Mr. Sterling favors the road bonds. His alleged sympathy for the counties heavily in debt for roads is a condemnation of his acts as Chairman of the Highway Commission, because the policy of the Commission compelled the counties to borrow in order to get state-federal aid. If the counties face bankruptcy because of issuing road bonds at the demand of Mr. Sterling and his associates on the Highway Commission, it is axiomatic that if the state adopts a similar policy of issuing road bonds it will soon face a similar condition. The whole is only equal to the sum of all its parts. If it is right to pay back to the counties certain monies it should be done with current funds.

Again, if the state should borrow any sum of money for road purposes, how do we know but what the Highway Commission will handle the money as they have in the past and demand that counties issue more bonds in order to participate in the fund? Can one conceive of a more vicious business circle and a surer road to ultimate economic ruin?

It has been asserted that the Chairman of the Highway Commission has used the great power of his office to further his race for governor. Whether he did or not he has refused to resign and thereby remove all political obligations upon the part of five thousand employees of that division of our state government.

Ferguson favors electing the Highway Commission and so do I. He also favors decentralizing its political power by dividing the state into districts and I am in hearty accord with the proposal. Mr. Sterling on the other hand is opposed to electing the Highway Commission. As this employs an army of citizens it is not impertinent to assume that as Mr. Sterling is opposed to election of this Commission he is, like Governor Moody, opposed to elections at all, except a comparative few to act as official dictators. Any party who is opposed to elections in all governmental matters, where practicable, should not seek the votes of the people and should not receive them if he did seek them. About all the average citizen has left is his right to vote and if that is given up or taken away from him he will be a slave both politically and economically.

There are other points in the Ferguson program which meet with my approval, such as redemption in case of foreclosures, putting restrictions on motor busses, etc., but as Mr. Sterling has not, so far as I know, expressed himself upon these particular questions it would merely be giving my opinion of his views to make comparisons.

Questions of vital and perpetual importance are at stake and it is no time to be governed by personal likes and dislikes. Four more years of official effort to disfranchise the people and four years of wholesale borrowing, such as is proposed by Sterling, might prove to be almost disastrous to our commonwealth.

FRED W. DAVIS.

The shipper of the succulent watermelon can prevent his produce from developing stem-end rot in transit by choosing only melons that are free from cuts and bruises and by re-clipping and treating the stems with a disinfectant paste as they are packed in the car. The paste can be bought ready made; or it can be made by boiling 8 ounces of bluestone in 2½ quarts of water and adding 8 ounces of starch that has been dissolved in 1 pint of cold water. Practically all commercial varieties of watermelon are subject to stem-end rot, which is especially destructive in the South-eastern States.

COTTON MARKETING.

Sooner or later the Farmers Marketing Association of America will be affiliated with the Federal Farm Board, said M. H. Wolfe, general manager of the association upon his return from Washington today.

The question of co-operative marketing of cotton in Texas was discussed with President Hoover and the President's attention was especially called to the fact that there are two schools of co-operative marketing among farmers just as there are different schools of medicine among doctors. They differ sometimes on the diagnosis of the case and the remedy to be applied.

The marketing school known as the Sapiro system and represented by the co-operatives fostered by the Farm Board believe strongly in collective selling of cotton and major on that point. While the other school represented by the Farmers Marketing Association of America, Inc. believes in co-operative marketing with special stress on the farmers getting cost of production and a reasonable profit. The Farmers Marketing Association believes the Farm Board's policy should be broadened out to include both schools of co-operatives, especially is this true in Texas where an average crop is five million bales, making it impossible for one association to handle more than one fifth of the crop.

If farm relief is to be a reality and the Farm Board is to be an effective agency it is imperative that this question have serious consideration without delay, and that no discrimination be made against one association in favor of another.

The Farm Board's loan plan for the new crop contemplates supplemental loans only, which means that all co-operative marketing associations must rely on the local banks or the intermediate credit banks for money, together with small additional loans from the Farm Board, perhaps ten per cent of the market value. Texas banks might as well get ready to finance the cotton crops as they have always done. In as much as the handling charges of our association costs the farmer less than half what it costs in the other association, we expect to handle a large volume of cotton this fall.

BEES OFTEN FLY EIGHT MILES FOR HONEY LOAD.

Confirming the honeybee's reputation for diligence, the United States Department of Agriculture recently learned that a bee will sometimes fly as much as 8 miles and return with its minute load. Under such circumstances a single pound of honey would represent approximately 18,000 trips of 16 miles each, or nearly 300,000 miles of flight by bees.

In a locality in Wyoming where irrigated alfalfa is virtually the only source of honey, the department placed some hives 8 miles from the nearest nectar supply. The bees made daily trips to the alfalfa, loaded with honey, and returned. Since the bees flew this distance regularly, the department apiculturists assume they might fly even farther if necessary.

Flying these 16-mile trips, however, some bees fail to return home because sand storms overtake them or headwinds impede them. Laden with honey, they are forced to rest often on the way home, particularly when flying into the wind or in cool weather. When they reach the hive after such long trips they often make abnormal landings, and frequently fail to alight at the entrance of the hive.

Soaking any kind of fresh meat in water before cooking it is a mistake. It draws out the juices which give the characteristic flavor and add to its food value. Before cooking simply wipe meat off with a damp cloth or trim it.

A Message To You!

Hondo, Texas, August, 1930.

Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer,
In Medina County and Texas.
Dear Friends:

You are to be congratulated on your choice for Governor of Texas, as expressed by you in the recent primary. Your choice is the choice of the great people of this State, for Mrs. Ferguson leads her closest rival by about 75,000 votes. The common people have spoken.

The small land owners, the tenant farmers, the people of moderate means, whether they be prohibitionist or anti, or whether they be Protestant or Catholic, Jew or Gentile, feel that they would be safe with Mrs. Ferguson. The Fergusons always did keep down taxes; they are good business people and just naturally can run our institutions on less money than those other fellows will. We are afraid that a multi-millionaire might not know how hard it is for us fellows to raise our taxes, and he might try to build too many monuments to himself, and incidentally break our backs with the burdens of taxation. You know those rich guys run together, think together and act together. If they get hold of that machinery up in Austin things might go bad for us little fellows.

Now listen. The run-off will take place on the 23rd of August. It's just a few days off. Mr. Sterling and his rich friends are working day and night for his election. They have nearly every newspaper in Texas working for him. It's going to be hard sailing for us if you boys in the forks of the road don't take enough trouble to come out and vote. You've just got to come out and vote and bring every body in your household entitled to a vote and insist on their voting. It is not only important, it is vital. Don't let anything prevent you from voting on that day. Arouse your neighbors, and see that they go to the polls, and cast their vote for the working man's friend, Mrs. Miriam Ferguson.

With best wishes, from,

YOUR TAXPAYING FRIENDS.

QUIHI NOTES.

"If you forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you; but if you forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive you your trespasses." Matthew 6: 14 and 15.

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock Sunday School and Bible class will begin in Bethlehem Lutheran church. All are cordially invited to come and take part in these exercises.

Two divine services will be held in Bethlehem Lutheran church Sunday, namely; in the German tongue at 10 o'clock A. M. and at 8 o'clock P. M. All are cordially invited to all services in this church.

The Ladies Aid society of Bethlehem Lutheran church held a very interesting meeting last Thursday afternoon. Aside of the regular routine business the society determined to hold a community social some time in October. The program of this prospective social will include a bazaar, a musical-literary program, refreshments and other interesting numbers. The committee of arrangements is composed of Mesdames Luebbie Boehle, chairman, George Balzen and Arnold Balzen.

The large and appreciative audience which came to Bethlehem Lutheran church last Sunday night to hear and enjoy a musical-literary program by the Quihi Lutheran League was well rewarded for its efforts. The pastor of the church headed the literary side of the program while Mrs. Henry Schuehle led the musical side in her accustomed efficient and affable manner. Every number on the program was rendered excellently and, whether poetical, musical or literary, brought a splendid message to every attentive hearer. Immediately after the program the League held its regular monthly meeting; the minutes of the secretary and the report of the treasurer showed the League to be in a flourishing condition. A fine program to be rendered September 7 was announced by the program committee.

HONDO FOOTBALL SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED BY COACH.

Hondo High School's football season opens September 20 with a game against the Somerset Bulldogs to be played here. There are eight games on the schedule for the Owls this year with two open dates in October yet to be filled. Cotulla will probably be played on one of these dates. Due to the great expense incurred in playing at Rio, the Wildcats will be dropped from the round schedule this year.

Only two of the Owls games this year are played away from home. The Hondo squad goes to Sabinal and Crystal City for their out-of-town matches.

The schedule is:

September 20—Somerset at Hondo.

September 25—Floresville at Hondo.

October 3—Peacock at Hondo.

October 10—Uvalde at Hondo.

October 17—Open.

October 24—Open.

October 31—Sabinal at Sabinal.

November 10—Pearsall at Hondo.

November 15—Devine at Hondo.

November 21—Crystal City at Crystal City.

HONDO BOY WINS HONORS.

Waco, Tex., Aug. 15.—Among the ninety-seven young people receiving degrees at the summer commencement at Baylor University here this afternoon was Joe H. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Wilson, of Hondo. Wilson came to Baylor from Southwestern University, Georgetown, where he was a member of the Science Society and made a letter in tennis two successive years. Prior to attending Southwestern, he was a student at Hondo High school, where he was an honor graduate and took prominent parts in debating and athletics. He has studied at Baylor one year and one summer.

During his career in Baylor, Wilson was a member of Kappa Delta Pi, scholarship fraternity, and took an active interest in Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. work on the campus. He was elected to the Marston scholarship in Brown University, Providence, R. I., and will enroll in this institution this fall.

CHEVROLETS REDUCED IN PRICE.

A substantial price reduction on several models became effective August 14, according to Joe Dillon, local Chevrolet dealer. Coming as it does at this time immediately following the adoption of DeLuxe wire wheel equipment, it is further indication of the policy of Chevrolet Motor Company to pass to the public the savings made possible thru efficient business management and volume production.

This move, in addition to the smart new color choices now available on all models, is adding further stimulant to the already definite preference of the public for six cylinder performance and luxury.

3. "Centralized High School, Its Effect Upon the Rural Child," Superintendent G. M. Turner, Devine, Texas.

4. "Standardization of the Schools of the County To Meet the State Requirements," Superintendent W. N. Saathoff.

5. "The Needs of Co-Operation of the District School Boards with the County Department of Education," Chairman W. L. Dubose.

The community is looking to the board of trustees for leadership and guidance. The board is the custodian of the entire plant. Thru their efforts and co-operation schools are improved and strengthened, teachers inspired and the community built.

Their presence will be an inspiration to others. They will return to their respective schools determined to put into operation better educational facilities for the children of their respective district.

Respectfully yours,

W. L. DUBOSE, Chairman,
County Board of Trustees.

W. N. SAATHOFF,

Ex-Officio Sec. County Board
